List of Publications on the HM-JACKarc Faecal Immunochemical Test for Haemoglobin (FIT) Analytical System: September 2020

HM-JACKarc in Asymptomatic Population Screening

Results from the Scottish Bowel Screening Programme. See the full details of the results of introduction of FIT as a first-line test at: https://www.isdscotland.org/Health-Topics/Cancer/Bowel-Screening/ A summary of the impressive findings is available at: https://www.isdscotland.org/Health-Topics/Cancer/Publications/2019-02-05/2019-02-05-Bowel-Screening-Publication-Summary.pdf

HM-JACKarc in Assessment of Symptomatic Patients

National Guidelines

Reviews

Senore C, Haug U. Faecal immunochemical tests have the potential for correctly ruling out colorectal cancer in symptomatic patients. BMJ Evid Based Med 2018;23:113-4.

Fraser CG. Faecal immunochemical tests for haemoglobin (FIT) in the assessment of patients with lower abdominal symptoms: current controversies. Gastroenterol Hepatol 2019;42:263-70.

Conference report

Book Chapter

Steele RJC and Fraser CG. Haemoglobin for Timely Assessment of Patients with Symptoms of Colorectal Disease in Olsen Timely Diagnosis of Colorectal Disease, Olson L, ed. Springer, 2018.

Evaluations of the HM-JACKarc

Stability of faecal haemoglobin

Haemoglobin variants

Sampling of faeces

Faecal haemoglobin in adenoma

Faecal haemoglobin in ulcerative colitis – application of HM-JACKarc

Other publications
